Beginning Beekeeping Seminar

This is an introductory course to the fascinating world of beekeeping for the beginner beekeeper. Learn the art of basic beekeeping and how to produce your own honey! We will delve into the amazing life of the honeybee and how to successfully be a beekeeper.

The seminar is led by an experienced beekeeper and includes lecture and hands on application of the presented material. This course is presented in 3 hours of classroom lecture and one and a half hours of application. These classes are designed for the beginner with no experience.

ABOUT THE INSTRUCTOR:

Rachael Seida became a beekeeper at the age of fourteen when she received a youth scholarship through a local beekeeping club. She has worked in the beekeeping industry as a beekeeper, spokesperson, and educator for more than eleven years. In 2008 Rachael traveled across the US educating the public on the importance of beekeeping, reaching more than 3 million people. She is currently a hobby beekeeper and keeps her hives in her backyard. She also teaches beekeeping classes through the Collin County Hobby Beekeepers Association, and chairs the Texas Honey Queen Program. She recently received her Master Beekeeper certification from the University of Nebraska.
